

“We work for the cooking revolution”

Since 2007, BORA Lüftungstechnik have been a breath of fresh air in the kitchen sector with their innovative products and creative team. Our young, dynamic company is characterised by flat hierarchies and a fun working philosophy. With your help we want to completely redesign the kitchen as a living space. Together we will shape your future!

For our two sites in Raubling and Niederndorf we are looking for a:

Trainee (m/f/o) for our “Wild Card for Business” programme, to start as soon as possible

We transform talented career changers, including former professional athletes with no vocational training or academic studies, into top trainees ready to take on responsible positions.

What we have to offer:

Over a course of 18 months our trainees have the chance to work in different departments. In the first 9 months they are taught basic sales skills and in the remaining 9 months they can freely choose the departments they wish to work in. During this time, different processes, structures and interfaces, as well as the different business activities, are looked at in depth (on-the-job training).

Your profile:

- Good spoken and written English; further languages an advantage
- Communication skills, assertiveness and willingness to learn
- You are systematic, structured and meticulous in your work

Other things you should know:

We will give you responsibilities from day one and set you a wide variety of challenges. In doing so, we enable former professional athletes to prepare themselves in the best possible way for a future career at BORA. What's more, we offer our employees great perks and benefits.

Interested?

If this post appeals to you, we look forward to receiving your application documents with your salary expectations and earliest possible start date. Please apply online at: <https://www.bora.com/gb/gb/company/jobs/>